TEN GIRLS IN CONTEST FOR POPULARITY AT CARNIVAL

The Charles Klein New Year's Association to Hold Grand Carnival Between Wharton and Tasker Streets During Week; Various Entertainments

ALTHOUGH of a friendly nature, the keenest of rivalry exists in the contest among the 10 young girls striving for the prizes, to be awarded to the five successful girls in the Popularity Contest, to be held in conjunction with the First Grand Carnival of the Charles Klein New Year Association during this week on Point Breeze avenue, between Wharton and Tasker streets, and it is certain that the campaign will become more vigorous toward the approach of Saturday night, at which time the contest will close.

The most popular girl will receive a diamond ring and a five-pound box of Stubbins' bonbons. The second prize winner will receive a gold watch and a five-pound box of Rumsay's chocolates. Third prize winner will receive a jewelry case, while the fourth and fifth prize winners will receive a pair of bracelets and a lavender.

The list of contestants consists of Miss Harry McCall, 138 South 22d street; Miss Alice Fitzpatrick, 1531 South 24th street; Miss May Hoyt, 221 Cross street; Miss Bessie Lowther, 1123 South 22d street; Miss Catherine McVeath, 1919 South Hembree street; Miss Leith Stonge, 1642 Point Breeze avenue; Miss Jennie Simons, 1620 Point Breeze avenue; Miss Marie Hartman, 507 Porter street, and Miss Cecelia Ferguson, 224 Cross street.

The opening of the carnival, which is being held to create funds to enable the Klein Club to make a gorgeous display in the next New Year parade, will be featured by a parade of 100 members of the Klein Club arrayed in various costumes and accompanied by two bands. On Wednesday evening the club members and the public will be addressed by Director of Public Safety George D. Porter, Select Councilman Frank J. Ryan, Charles Wharton, John Stubbins, Daniel Green and other prominent speakers.

The committee in charge of the carnival consists of John J. Shields, chairman, and David Crawford, William Murray and William McClary.
